Sukiyaki Millgeorge Manda is a captivating novel that weaves a tapestry of love, loss, and the resilience of the human spirit. Set in a small town in Japan, the story follows the lives of three generations of women: Sukiyaki, her daughter Millgeorge, and her granddaughter Manda.

Sukiyaki is a strong and independent woman who has always lived life on her own terms. She is a survivor of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, and her experiences have shaped her into a woman of great strength and compassion.

Millgeorge is a talented artist who struggles with mental illness. She is a complex and troubled character, but she is also capable of great love and kindness.

Manda is a young woman who is trying to find her place in the world. She is searching for love and acceptance, but she is also haunted by the legacy of her family's past.

The novel explores the complex relationships between these three women, and it delves into the themes of love, loss, and the resilience of the human spirit. It is a beautifully written and deeply moving story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
