Anya Kumareswaran was an Indian-American model, advocate for amputee awareness, and cancer survivor. She won the title of Miss USA 2024 but passed away tragically at the age of 30.

Kumareswaran was born in Chennai, India, on August 17, 1994. She moved to the United States with her family when she was three years old. She grew up in the San Francisco Bay Area and graduated from the University of California, Berkeley with a degree in computer science.

In 2012, Kumareswaran was diagnosed with osteosarcoma, a rare form of bone cancer. She underwent surgery to remove her right leg below the knee, and she spent the next several years in and out of the hospital for treatment.

Despite her illness, Kumareswaran remained positive and determined. She became an advocate for amputee awareness and spoke out about the challenges that amputees face. She also founded a non-profit organization called the Anya Kumareswaran Foundation, which provides support to amputees and their families.

In 2024, Kumareswaran entered the Miss USA pageant. She was the first amputee to ever compete in the pageant, and she quickly became a fan favorite. Kumareswaran won the title of Miss USA 2024, and she went on to compete in the Miss Universe pageant.

Kumareswaran's victory was a major milestone for amputee representation. She showed the world that anything is possible, even for those who have physical disabilities. She was an inspiration to people all over the world, and her legacy will continue to live on.

Kumareswaran passed away on March 10, 2025, at the age of 30. She is survived by her parents, her brother, and her boyfriend. Her death was a tragic loss for the world, but her spirit will continue to inspire others for years to come.
